

Open with text:

"This world is but a canvas to our imagination." - Henry David Thoreau

Now part of this world will actually be a canvas.

And you are the brush.

Show footage of game, shots from above with the player walking on one side, the game screen was the art while being painted on the other side.

End on logo

